

'DESIGNER DOORS? YES, URBAN FRONT DOES JUST THAT!'

The show was a great success for Urban Front who welcomed 1000 visitors to their stand over the 4 days. Due to popular demand during the show, Urban Front have now launched an internal door range to match their external doors and have also added pivot doors and doors at 2.4m high to their range.

Urban Front is a new company dedicated to introducing you to the delights of design for the frontage of your home.

Combining stainless steel, wood and glass to stunning effect, Urban Front brings you doors suitable for both the classic and contemporary domestic or commercial property.

If you are looking for that first great impression for a Victorian house that is in dire need of a fresh look or a 60's house which could easily be delivered into the 21st century with the help of a contemporary door, Urban Front could be the answer to your needs.

Urban Front's fifteen designer doors are available in six different hardwoods; Western Red Cedar, European Oak, Wenge, American Black Walnut, Idigbo, and Iroko.

One of Urban Front's designers Nabil Assaf says 'If you can buy designer kettles you should definitely be able to buy a designer door! The exterior of houses in the UK can sometimes leave you a bit cold and if the council won't let you change the frontage, they can't stop you from having a spectacular door and a designer one at that!'

Urban Front also provide complete door sets (door, frame, locks, door furniture) with a door furniture range by Randi, and multilocks from Spain. Made to measure is available.

NOTES TO EDITORS

Urban Front is run by two designers who have worked in property developments and television over the last 10 years. They started Urban Front due to a lack of this type of door on the market and are hoping to introduce internal doors to their line in addition to further designs throughout the year.
